& Employability Skills in Schools

Project Objectives

The main goal of SUCCESS is to educate school counselors in all participating countries in order to transfer new knowledge and skills in school settings at a national and EU level. The main goal was to develop an innovative training package for school counselors (a manual and hands-on activities, tools and practical exercises) based on Positive Psychology principles that will support students after they graduate from high school.

Project Results

Exploring and Revising Current Needs and Conditions of School Counselors:

The aim was to explore the personal and professional needs of school/guidance counselors within each of the participating partner country. For this purpose, the consortium prepared a comprehensive Report that includes the theoretical context of employability and positive psychology approach to career counseling. The Report includes also data from national reviews related to career and educational guidance policies and training programmes within the secondary education system. In addition, results of qualitative and quantitative study based on school counselor's needs were analyzed and presented.
